Welcome!

Irene Becker

Described by clients as a “transformational catalyst” Irene has helped executives, senior managers, professionals, entrepreneurs, writers, human resource professionals, speakers, trainers, coaches, teachers optimize communication, leadership and performance in high stress, high change environments. A self professed nerd on a mission to change the world, Irene holds post graduate certifications in management coaching, life coaching, emotional intelligence coaching and trauma counselling and also trained and received her executive coaching certificate with the number to leadership coach in the world, John Mattone. Irene’s journey has taken her from dreams of becoming an academic, to being the first woman CEO of a multi-million dollar steel company in Canada, working in Canada, USA and Europe, pioneering consulting and mentorship programs in Canada and achieving trailblazing results. She was also responsible for two landmark legal cases concerning the environment and the protection of child victims of parental abuse. Her favorite word is “inspire” and she has consistently done that for 15+ years in practice,
